Sports Concussion Management Program

- The PSN Sports Concussion Management Program is a Credentialed ImPACT Consultant (CIC) that has fulfilled the requirements established by the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center's Sports Concussion Program.

- Each year there are an estimated 2 million sports related concussions among children and adolescents. (Source: CDC)

- A concussion, once considered a relatively benign condition, is now recognized as a critical medical issue with potentially permanent consequences.

- ImPACT is a computerized program that evaluates and documents multiple aspects of neurocognitive function.
- ImPACT helps clinicians take the guesswork out of concussion management and promote safe return-to-play decisions for athletes.
- Athletes can register, pay for and take the ImPACT baseline test at www.phscare.org/concussion.
